City celebrates docents, approves special events, talks pickleball

by Nancy Ottonello

On the evening of June 7 the Salmon City Council held their regular meeting. Present were all six councilors – Fred Waidely, Margaret Glodowski, Todd Nelson, Neal James, Russ Chinske and Jim Bockelman. Also at the table were Mayor Leo Marshall, City Attorney Fred Snook and City Administrator Emery Penner. Sitting in back were other city employees, in case they were needed.

Mayor Marshall started by saying "Welcome! We've got quite a crowd here tonight." Usually there are very few if any community members at the meetings. This week the room was filled.

Agenda item No. 2 – Is the consent agenda where the council approves the meeting minutes for past meetings and any city bills submitted to be paid. Councilor Fred Waidely moved to accept the consent agenda. Marshall took a roll call vote of the councilors, they all voted aye and he declared the motion is carried.

Agenda item No. 3 – Is the first of two chances for the public to comment. City Finance Director Amy Fealko moved to the podium and introduced herself. She told the council she was going to wait until the second public comment period at the end of the meeting but since there were so many people present she wanted to share something sooner.

Fealko said, "I wanted to recognize this is Mary's (Benton, city clerk) last city council meeting." The room broke out into applause and gave Mary a standing ovation. Fealko continued, "I know I couldn't have lasted as long as I have without her. I really appreciate everything she has done."

Agenda item No. 4 – This was scheduled to give Sacajawea Center Director Suzy Avey a chance to recognize the docents that volunteer at the Sacajawea Center. Avey read the names of the 2023 docents.

Agenda item No. 5 – Sacajawea Center Docent Appreciation Day Proclamation. This was read into record by the mayor. The city wanted to recognize all the hard work the docents do and declared June 8 to be a day of appreciation.

Agenda item No. 6 – A special event request from Salmon River Charitable Events. This was a chance for the council to review an application submitted by Salmon River Charitable Events to hold Salmon River Musicfest on Island Park through out Salmon River Days.

Penner explained, they were asking for use of the area of the park usually reserved for the dog park over the days of July 3,4 and 5. They will be serving alcohol to those attendees 21 or over, Ids will be checked. The police will be patrolling the area on foot through
